15th European Meeting on Complement in Human Disease

27–30 June 2015 Uppsala, Sweden

Sponsorship and Exhibitor Prospectus
In recent years, there has been a dramatic increase in the number of diseases in which complement dysfunction or/and dysregulation are implicated. In addition, specific complement modulatory drugs are now in clinical practice. Taken together, there is an urgent need for techniques to monitor complement activity in disease and to follow the effect of treatment. This meeting brings together researchers and clinicians with a common interest in the role of complement in human disease. We therefore hope that you would like to participate in this exciting and innovative meeting and look forward to hearing from you.

On behalf of the organizing committee,

Professor Bo Nilsson, Department of Immunology, Genetics and Pathology, Uppsala University, bo.nilsson@igp.uu.se
